Hi everyone a little more about me im a young yungerman in kollel, happily married, I consider myself a ben torah and I constantly work on growing in torah, avodas HASHEM, and in my marriage, unfortunately i have tremendous nisyonos in this regard and have been struggling since i was a young teenager. the problem got worse once i got married, because until than i had much less access to a computer ,even with filters when i got a tayveh i would find ways to find shmutz around them, its been a tough battle for the last year and a half ecspecially since i was to ashamed to talk to anyone luckily HASHEM sent me to gye and i have much better recources to fight (including this forum) i started the 90 day challenge 2 weeks ago and although its been tough, im slowly moving along making progress, if anyone has advice please share.

Welcome i-man!!

I love the name, that sort of summarizes the whole reason I, and many others, are here, because I am an i-man who rarely think about anybody else but "I"!!

Your story sounds extremely normal, certainly similar to mine!

As for the advice part, I'd have to say that you shouldn't rely on filters or the 90 day challenge. As the saying goes "Lust is our solution, not our problem". We use lust as a painkiller, to block out some negative feelings that we don't want to experience, so instead of dealing with them, we just shut them up with running to our fantasy land.

Have you seen any sort of pattern yet? Have you noticed times that are more difficult, that you have more or stronger desires?

Whatever the case, one thing is certainly beneficial, Keep On Posting!!!!!!!!!!!!

oh....and.....

KOMT!!!!

Welcome I-Man to this great club!!!

Your story sounds very familiar here on the forums many of us could have written that post.

You are between guys who care understand and really want to help. So make yourself comfortable and keep on posting!!!

Looking forward to seeing you around!!!

Hello and Welcome To Gye!!

This website might seem quite daunting at first. You will get loads of advice from all sorts of people. Make sure take gradual steps. Don't try and learn everything in one go. Also don't expect instant results. All Hashem wants is you to keep moving in the rights direction- leave the rest to Him!

You mentioned in your post that you wanted to win the battle of 'good vs evil' however I suggest you look at it with a slightly different perspective. Treat it in a way in which you are allergic to anything to do with 'lust'. As long as you stay away from the 'nuts' you will be able to lead a normal life. This is just a choice between 'living' life and facing your problems vs 'escaping' from life by using this drug.

Hope you understand this!!

Hi everyone

almost up to level 4 B'H' so far so good

I'm a bit apprehensive because based on my history i usually don't go more than 2/3 weeks clean so this is where the real challenge lies .

any good ideas to strengthen/prepare myself for the inevitable challenge?
