

Shmilu's renewed quest for purity

Posted by SoHard,YetSoRewarding - 29 Dec 2009 18:09

After a 3-months-to-long leave of absence -- unfortunately also a leave of absence from the principles which this special website stands for, I'm back...

Welcome back!

Remember, one day at a time.

Live only for today.

Okay. Here we go. I'm starting the 90-day journey today...

I'm absolutely sick of falling. Please, Hashem, help me make it work, and make it stick.

What are you doing besides "starting a new 90" that will help it actually happen?

I don't mean to C"V discourage you here, but I'm speaking from experience if you know what I mean...

Subscribing to the stricter version of JNet Mobile which would essentially disable the browser on my phone altogether and would only allow email use. How about that for a start?

But you're absolutely right; it has more to do with a change of attitude than it does with merely doing something that will hinder one's access to 'shmutz'...

I'm in for a huge, huge test this coming Sunday (and maybe on the Sunday 2 weeks from then). You see, as long as the Jets are in the playoffs I will have a very, very hard time restraining myself and not watch the game which, needless to say, is full of pitfalls with the cheerleaders and the commercials and what not. I hope and pray to Hashem that I won't succumb to the temptations of watching the game.

I know that my fellow Jets fans will feel very uncomfortable with idea, but should I simply daven to Hashem that the Jets should lose this coming Sunday so that I won't have to deal with the 'nisayon' of not watching the Jets in the Super Bowl? Lol. (It's not really a laughing matter. I know...)

Perhaps if you daven for the Jets to lose, I would resort to watching other things? I would daven for them to win. ;D
